Pfizer is also proud to launch This is Living with Cancer™, a program that provides tools and resources to support those who have been affected by cancer, including a mobile app, LivingWith, designed to help manage some of the daily challenges faced by people living with cancer. "Today, more than 15 million people in the United States are living with cancer and that number is expected to grow as emerging science and better therapies are likely to increase the number of patients living with cancer as we strive for a cure," said Liz Barrett, Global President, Pfizer Oncology. "Navigating life with cancer poses many challenges for patients and their families and friends, and we hope these unique programs can help their journey.”

“Cancer patients can feel isolated and unsure about how to navigate care and approach day-to-day life,” said Myra Biblowit, President & CEO, Breast Cancer Research Foundation. “Pfizer’s new programming that goes beyond treatment is critical in helping patients and their care networks deal with the challenges associated with living with cancer.”

About Pfizer Oncology Together

Pfizer Oncology Together is a portfolio-wide program for patient access solutions and support in the U.S. As part of the program, patients receiving Pfizer Oncology medicines will have access to a team of social workers who will be able to provide support beyond the traditional access and reimbursement services by connecting them with a wide variety of patient education resources and outreach programs. The support programs include identifying independent third party resources that provide emotional support, lodging, transportation, workplace transition support for patients balancing their jobs and treatment, and connecting patients and their families to local advocacy groups.
