

FOR WOMEN WITH BREAST CANCER

WORK LIFE AND CANCER

- Cancer and Careers: Resources for Cancer Patients in the Workplace
- Cancer and Careers: Questions to Ask \(Yourself, HCPs, Employers\) About Cancer and Work
- Cancer and Careers: Case Study (sharing diagnosis with employer and asking for time off)
- Cancer and Careers: Case Study (returning to work after cancer treatment)
- Cancer and Careers: Videos
- CancerCare: Workplace Issues Podcasts
- Young Survival Coalition: Surviving, Thriving—and Working

MANAGING TREATMENT AND SIDE EFFECTS

- Cancer and Careers: Questions to Ask Your Doctor about Cancer and Work

FOR HEALTHCARE PROFESSIONALS

WORK LIFE AND CANCER CARE

- Cancer and Careers: Manual for Healthcare Professionals
- Cancer and Careers: Healthcare Professionals Checklist
- Cancer and Careers: Healthcare Professionals Presentations

HELPING PATIENTS MANAGE TREATMENT AND SIDE EFFECTS

- Cancer and Careers: Working Through the Side Effects: Advice For Your Patients

Many women with breast cancer want to work after their diagnosis, but may find it challenging.¹

Here are some tools and resources to help these women – as well as employers/co-workers and healthcare professionals – navigate breast cancer in the workplace.

FOR EMPLOYERS & CO-WORKERS

SUPPORTING EMPLOYEES WITH CANCER

- Cancer and Careers: When a Coworker Has Cancer: What to Say
- Cancer and Careers: Be an Effective “Point Person”
- Cancer and Careers: Manager’s Kit

CANCER INFORMATION

- Cancer and Careers: Educating Yourself on Cancer
- National Business Group on Health: An Employer's Guide to Cancer Treatment and Prevention