National Advertising Campaign from Pfizer Consumer Healthcare Shares Stories of Pain and Relief

"Our Advil® Stories campaign emphasizes that everyone experiences physical pain for some reason in their lives, no matter who they are. And when pain tries to disrupt lives, millions of people trust Advil®, not just for relief, but to help them continue to do what they love,"

(BUSINESS WIRE)--Jon Bon Jovi's schedule is packed - on any given day he's performing sold-out stadium shows, staying fit with daily runs, spending time with his family and giving back through the Jon Bon Jovi Soul Foundation. One thing that's not on his schedule is pain. The artist gives a glimpse into his life in a new advertisement for Advil®. The TV ad was shot in Red Bank, New Jersey, at the Jon Bon Jovi Soul Kitchen, a community kitchen that recently opened as an initiative of the Jon Bon Jovi Soul Foundation.

Last year, Jon injured his calf muscle on stage while entertaining a hometown crowd in New Jersey. He later revealed in an interview that he relies on Advil® to get through the inevitable aches and pains that come with touring, setting the stage for his true Advil® story. In the advertisement, which breaks December 9, Jon joins other real Advil® users who have told their stories of pain and relief in Advil's® current testimonial-style campaign. The ads show that no matter who you are or what you do, pain disrupts busy lives. All of the stories can be viewed at TakeAdvil.com.

"Pain does not have much of a place in my life. I checked the schedule and it's not on it. You never know when Advil® is needed," said Jon Bon Jovi.

Jon Bon Jovi's Advil® testimonial highlights the man behind the music. Vignettes in the :30 second commercial and additional digital content include Jon backstage and on the road, as well as sitting down at the Jon Bon Jovi Soul Kitchen, which offers nutritious meals to those in need.

The Jon Bon Jovi Soul Kitchen in Red Bank, NJ, a program of the Soul Foundation, is dedicated to strengthening the community by serving nutritious meals to all, regardless of their income. Diners at the Jon Bon Jovi Soul Kitchen order from a menu with no prices listed. Those who cannot afford to pay can volunteer. Those who can pay the suggested donation are encouraged to give a little more. The kitchen, built in an old auto-body shop, opened in October. Both the Jon Bon Jovi Soul Kitchen and the Jon Bon Jovi Soul Foundation work towards the goal of breaking the cycle of poverty and homelessness. Pfizer Consumer Healthcare, makers of Advil®, supports the Jon Bon Jovi Soul Foundation's work, and through this sponsorship has donated to its initiatives.

"Our Advil® Stories campaign emphasizes that everyone experiences physical pain for some reason in their lives, no matter who they are. And when pain tries to disrupt lives, millions of people trust Advil®, not just for relief, but to help them continue to do what they love," said Srini Sripada, Senior Director, Pain Management, Pfizer Consumer Healthcare. "We know that Advil® consumers are our greatest ambassadors and that pain is something we all share. We are excited to showcase the true stories from pain sufferers who are finding relief with Advil®, and we are thrilled that Jon is sharing his story with America. We applaud him for the work his foundation is doing every day."

The Advil® Stories campaign launched last year, and in October of this year Regis and Joy Philbin debuted their true Advil® story. To see all of the Advil® stories, visit TakeAdvil.com.
